Kroll Investigations and Cyber Expertise Rated Best By National Law Journal Readers

Kroll Ranked Best Litigation Dispute Advisory Services Consultant, Best Corporate Investigations Provider, and Best Cyber Security Provider

NEW YORK – March 29, 2017 – Kroll (“the Company”), a global leader in risk mitigation, investigations, compliance, cyber resilience, security, and incident response solutions, today announced that the recently released “2017 Best of the National Law Journal” report names Kroll as “Best Litigation Dispute Advisory Services Consultant”, “Best Corporate Investigations Provider”, and “Best Cyber Security Provider”. This marks the sixth consecutive year that Kroll has been ranked as the top service provider or as a finalist in at least two or more categories.

The National Law Journal’s Sixth Annual Best of Reader Choice Survey awarded top honors in 92 distinct categories. Winners and finalists were selected following a vote by 4,500 National Law Journal readers, including private practitioners, judges, corporate general counsel, government attorneys, and other members of the legal community.

“It is gratifying to receive recognition from the members of the legal community that Kroll has been serving for decades. Our professionals have consistently helped counsel and their clients to address complex and varied challenges, delivering problem-solving and risk mitigation services in the areas of complex investigations, due diligence, forensic accounting and data analysis, and cyber services,” said David Fontaine, Chief Executive Officer of Kroll and its parent, Corporate Risk Holdings. “These awards reaffirm Kroll’s well-earned reputation for helping to produce positive client outcomes through a deep knowledge of human behavior and facility in navigating current and emerging technologies. I am very proud of the entire global Kroll organization.”

Forward-Looking Statements

This press release may contain “forward-looking statements.” These forward-looking statements include, but are not limited to, statements regarding the Company’s performance and growth, and other non-historical statements. Forward-looking statements identify prospective information. Important factors could cause actual results to differ, possibly materially, from those stated in the forward-looking statements. In some cases you can identify forward-looking statements by words such as “anticipate,” “believe,” “could,” “estimate,” “expect,” “intend,” “may,” “plan,” “predict,” “potential,” “should,” “will” and “would” or the negatives thereof, variations thereof or other similar words. You should read statements that contain these words carefully because they discuss the Company’s future priorities, goals, strategies, actions to improve business performance, market growth assumptions and expectations, future business opportunities, capital expenditures, financing needs, financial position and other information that is not historical information or state other “forward-looking” information. Forward-looking statements should not be read as a guarantee of future performance or results, and will not necessarily be accurate indications of the times at, or by which, such performance or results will be achieved. Forward-looking information is based on information available at the time and/or management's good faith belief with respect to future events, and is subject to risks and uncertainties that could cause actual performance or results to differ materially from those expressed in the statements. Forward-looking statements speak only as of the date the statements are made. The Company assumes no obligation to update forward-looking statements to reflect actual results, changes in assumptions or changes in other factors affecting forward-looking information except to the extent required by applicable securities laws. If the Company does update one or more forward-looking statements, no inference should be drawn that the Company will make additional updates with respect thereto or with respect to other forward-looking statements.
